COMMODORE'S COMMENTS

HELLO – Is Anybody Out There??? That's how I started my last "Commodore's Comments", and you answered with a loud yes. We sent out word in the Binnacle and with special emails for the LGSC Annual Dinner, and 86 of you showed up at Gunter's Landing. The food was great, the comments from the new owners were very interesting and everyone had a great time. In all of our collective memories, we cannot think of another event where we had as many club members in attendance. If you missed it, you missed a great evening. I enjoyed meeting many club members that all I had ever seen was their names on the dock list. We distributed new flags to the Board members, so you'll be able to identify us when we are on our boats.

The new owners have announced that Quill Briggs has been hired to be the new Dock Master, and all questions, problems or comments to the owners should be routed through him. Quill will be on the docks on weekends and on call during the week. They have already started improving our clubhouse and are in the process of installing a sink and stove for our kitchen. The building will be painted and the heaters fixed in the restrooms. Let's help the new owners by doing our part in keeping the facilities clean and in good working order. We also need to monitor unauthorized activities or suspicious individuals on the docks and report them to Quill. Remember, we do not have a permanent resident living at the marina 24-7, so we'll need to assume a more active role.

The Board's next job (December 8 meeting at 5 pm) will be to review last year's activities and start planning for next year. We welcome any comments you have and still want to hear from you, both personally or by you completing the "LGSC Members Survey" and returning it to me or by putting it in the plastic tray located just below the thermostat in the clubhouse.

Our next social will be a Christmas dinner at the clubhouse at 6 pm, right after the Board Meeting. We hope you have had a great Thanksgiving and will have a joyous holiday season.
